Mr. Morris Reck, who left this place some weeks ago to attend school at Delaware, has become temporarily insane. Advice to friends in this city yesterday indicate that the trouble will soon pass away, and that it was occasioned by over study.

Mr. F. B. Bird, who is setting iron for King, Gilbert & Warner, Columbus, spent Sunday in this city. He reports business good. This does not indicate that the country is going to wreck. The calling of the Republican scare crowd is gone. It no longer scares.

The C. H. V. & T. R. R. Co. cannot handle all the coal that is ready for shipment in the Hocking Valley. Of course the miners understand that all this is happening under a Democratic administration. Good old Democratic times bring health, wealth and plenty to the door of the laboring man.

Mr. Burgess, chairman of the Hocking County Executive Committee, Supreme Court Reporter, Business Manager of the Republican State Committee and Co-ordinator to the Governor, should come home. The Haydensville ram needs a keeper, and then, again, Chas. M. B. will find the burdens of the campaign very perplexing.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison was given a reception at the Cincinnati Centennial on Tuesday of last week. The Enquirer has this paragraph:

Farmers Attention! Collins & Moore have just received 5 cases more of Blocher's hand made Boots—only $3 a pair. We guarantee this boot to wear and give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen, to whom was born a wonderfully deformed child some time ago, are considering the proposition to exhibit the little one before the medical colleges of the country. It is said there is not a parallel case in medical annals, and that if they will accept the propositions made, their remunerations will make a handsome sum. As the exhibition of such a curiosity in the medical colleges would add much to the lore of the profession, and as there would be nothing in such an exhibition that would reflect in any way upon the parents of the child, they will not doubt accept the propositions made. Dr. Campbell, who was the attending physician when the child was born, says it is remarkably healthy and thriving as well as any child could be that had come into the world, unimpaired and perfect in form.

It is not necessary to say that when Col. Rempel was presented to Mrs. General Harrison at Cincinnati last week, that the Gas Governor was at home getting in his work. He is a merry cuss—in this work. He is a merry cuss—in this work. He is a merry cuss—in this work.

It is an old and established principle that the proper thing for every man to do is to first take care of himself and family; this being done, the community and the country is safe. If the Democrats of the townships and counties take care of themselves, the State and Country is safe. While we follow Cleveland on principle, as our national leader, we march to the polls under our County captains. Our Democrats want only straight tickets. The lead pencil may be loaned to the Republicans. Democrats have no use for them on the coming election day.

Our candidates are all gentlemen of unexceptionable character and unquestioned qualifications for the offices they are candidates to fill. Our candidate for Treasurer, Ben Allen, is a young man of the western part of the county, who is self-made and who is self-sustaining. He is one of the boys born poor in the discouraging hills of Western Hocking. He educated himself and has attained justly to the rank of one of our most accomplished scholars, and one of the most successful teachers of the County. Besides this, Ben Allen is honest and genteel. He has for years been one of the most conspicuous light houses of our western townships, and has never faltered when the war was on for Democratic principles. As County School Examiner, he is popular with our best teachers, because he is capable for his place and impartial in the discharge of the obligations resting on him. Ben Allen is a poor man, and the salary of the office will help him in raising his little family. His competitor, Mr. McDonald, is a very excellent gentleman. We have nothing to say against his personal character or his qualifications, but he is a man of wealth and does not need need, in maintaining himself and family, the few hundred dollars that may come in the way of a salary. Besides, Mr. McDonald is a Republican. He is against Cleveland and Thurman. He has no claim upon any Democratic vote, and only on partisan political grounds, any claim for the votes of Republicans.

Our candidate for Commissioner, Mr. Geo. Marks, has served one term, and in the discharge of the very responsible duties of his office, has given satisfaction to all the people, Democrats and Republicans alike. He is a man of prudence. He is careful and economical in public expenditures, but he is not stingy. He favors good work and good pay. He encourages our Hocking county industries, and is always in favor of giving our country workingmen and tax payers a preference, as against the outsiders. Mr. Marks is one of our leading farmers, a prominent and active member of the Agricultural Society, and a gentleman of honor, intelligence and enterprise in whatever relation he may be found. He is also a sound Democrat. That, coupled with the fact that he has made a model commissioner, that he is honest and capable, will insure him eight hundred majority in the County. His opponent, Mr. Bay, is a partisan Republican. He is a good man and a worthy citizen, but he knows nothing of the public wants in this country, and could not be, if he so desired, be serviceable to the public as a Commissioner. He was put on the ticket merely to fill out a blank, as no other Republican in the convention would take the place. We believe Mr. Bay would withdraw if it were not for his radical Republican hostility to Cleveland, Thurman and the Democratic party.

Our candidate for Infirmary Director, Mr. Mathias, has served one term in office acceptable to the party and to the public. He is a substantial farmer, a man highly esteemed by all who know him, for his high moral character and for his excellent good sense.

He was nominated for his second term without opposition, a deserved compliment to his good service and an endorsement of his democracy. His opponent, Mr. Wallace, of Green township, is an industrious hard-working man, crippled in the hand, but he is a Republican and represents as a candidate, the opposition to Cleveland, Thurman and the Democratic party.

This campaign will be a test of strength, and an issue on principle. With candidates of the highest personal character, with principles that should be the controlling force in the country, there is every reason to believe that Hocking county, in the gains we make, will win the banner of the ladies of Columbus proposing giving to the county making the largest pro rata gains on last fall's election. Let every candidate, and every Democrat stand with each other, and all stand for the whole ticket.

It is pleasant for us to learn from a paragraph we reproduce elsewhere from the Cincinnati Enquirer, that Col. Rempel and Gen. Lew Wallace met at the Exposition and fought over the battles of the war.

"But they conquered all their foes, And thence they view the slain."

This Gen. Lew Wallace at this time is a blithering Republican politician. At the battle of Shiloh he was a few miles distant from the fight with a division of five thousand effective men, but didn't reach the battle field until the victory had been won. (See Gen. Grant's book.) It is our notion that Wallace and Rempel had interesting conversation about the battle Wallace was not engaged in. It was to them then as now, an occasion for tears over the victory had been won.

Col. Rempel's regiment, the 5th, was in the thickest of the fight on that bloody day, but "Wallace was lost on a country road," as Grant says, "within hearing of the guns, but could not find the battle field."

The County Ticket.

The Democrats of the County must keep in mind that in this presidential year, we must give special attention to our county ticket. The aim of the Republic is to break down our county and township majorities, thus creating anxiety and often times dissension. The duty of the true Democrat is to work for the largest possible majority for his county ticket. This done, there will be no loss to the State and National tickets.

principle that the proper thing for every man to do is to first take care of himself and family;

this being done, the community

A BAD COON.

How Sam Thompson Raised Money to Bury a Relation.

Mr. Sam Thompson, colored, who has been manipulating the elevator at the Neil House, Columbus, for some time, has been visiting here for several days, and during his stay has distinguished himself. Some days ago, an old lady, a relation, residing across the canal, died, Tuesday,

Sam started out among the charitable minded people of the town to raise money to defray the funeral expenses of the old lady.

He succeeded in raising about $8 and at once invested the greater part of it in a watch. He next proceeded to fill up his tank in the most approved fashion and got gloriously drunk, regardless of the fact that the remainder of his relation remained unburied. When Wednesday morning rolled around, the last of that $8 had been squandered and there was a very dry coin in town.

Sam is quite young yet, but it might be wise to administer a lesson that he will not soon forget. Some of the rest of his relatives will die one of these days and Sam may again start on a collecting tour, but the dollars he will collect will be very few.

It is a shame that people should have been imposed on in this manner, and the young rascal
